Untitled Part 1

AS Spotted leaf said goodbye to Fire heart she sat back and watched her clan leave for the gathering. She checked her store of herbs and then curled up in her bed for a good night's rest.

She woke to the sound of paw steps coming from the gorse tunnel. Back already? she pushed herself to her paws and peeked out the entrance. A grey figure slithered in through the tunnel and started towards the nursery. She let out a Warning growl to lead the figure away from the queens and kits. It padded toward the medicine den. She stepped back and crouched in the shadows as it walked through the crack of a enterance and grabbed her out of the shadows. It pushed her down and slid its claw through her neck in a single gracefull swipe. Scarlet puddles formed on each side of her neck as the figure left threw her den. She smelt a shadow clan tom before she was left in darkness forever.
